Gasoline direct injection (GDI) (also known as petrol direct injection, direct petrol injection, spark-ignited direct injection (SIDi) and fuel-stratified injection (FSI)), is a form of fuel injection employed in modern two-stroke and four-stroke gasoline engines. The gasoline is highly pressurized, and injected via a common rail fuel line directly into the combustion chamber of each cylinder ...

And to its credit, OMC's FICHT Fuel Injection system does just that. How It Works. The FICHT fuel injection system consists of four primary components: injectors, oiling system, electrical system and an engine management system that controls it all. A fuel injector with an internal electric solenoid pump is located over each cylinder head.

I have a '99 Evinrude 90hp Ficht and have had no problems to speak of at all. The motor was on the boat when I bought it. I had a mechanic go over it and replace the plugs and generally service the engine. He said it looked fine to him and so far it has run great. I replaced the starter, but have had no other real repairs (knock on wood).

I believe it affected more than just those, but I would stay away from any FICHT engine, especially if you plan on trolling. The resale value of those boats with that engine are horrible, not to mention the fact they could blow up. Unless you are getting some crazy deal, try to find a different boat or at least go with the 2003.
