I use the Deluxe 90 DSP with an ESP strat or a fender telecaster or a '78 gibson LP. I really like this amp due to its clean sound, its power, its digital effects, which aren't bad at all. It's good both for rehearsal and gigs. Very good value for money. It's not as good in crunch and drive mode, but ...

This is the Fender Deluxe 90 with one 12" Celestion speaker. The 90 stands for 90 watts. The amp is styled after the classic Fender blackface design; a black back panel and silver grille cloth. This was my first amp purchase as I was looking for something portable, loud and reliable. I remember I ...

OK, CHM, good luck. I was finally able to fix my DSP 90. Turned out that one of the power supply filter caps had a loose solder connection. It looked fine originally, but while testing it the second time I noticed that the amp would still shut down (like it did during my gig) when I touched the cap. I resoldered it, and it seems to be OK now.

I also had a Deluxe 90 DSP, as well as currently owning the FM212R. I think, if memory serves correct, the Stage 100 will probably be closer to the Deluxe 90, and in my opinion, you could do much worse than the Deluxe 90...mine sounded great for a cheapo open jam night, and was plenty loud to keep up with other musicians.

Obviously, the Deluxe 90 is not going to sound like your prime example of a vintage Super Reverb. Doesn't take a genius or a vintage tone hound to know that. All I'm looking for is someone who has actually played one (Wally, have you played one? If not, kindly refrain from commenting) and say whether they like it enough for that Fender sound.
